Our History, Leadership and Values

The Phoenix VA Health Care System (PVAHCS) has cared for America's Veterans in Phoenix for more than half a century. It's an honor we extend to our Veterans, which would never have been possible without the help of former United States Senator Carl Trumbull Hayden.

In 1947, Senator Carl T. Hayden arranged a meeting between President Harry Truman and a delegation of 27 Maricopa County residents. The delegation brought with them a petition signed by 100,000 voters requesting to build a VA hospital in Phoenix, Arizona.

The delegation was persuasive and on May 21, 1947, President Truman authorized the transfer of 27 acres of the Indian School reservation at 7th Street and Indian School Road to VA as a site for a new hospital. The hospital opened its doors in 1951.

In order to recognize Carl Hayden's assistance in this endeavor, and to honor his legislative and military service to Arizona, the medical center was renamed

Carl T. Hayden Veterans Affairs Medical Center (CTHVAMC) on Veterans Day, Nov. 11, 1987.

Since that time the Veteran population has continued to expand and so have the services of the CTHVAMC. We treat more than 75,000 patients to comprehensive health care benefits using a managed care model of health care delivery.

In order to reflect our growing Veterans' population and community outreach in 2008, our VA changed our system name to the Phoenix VA Health Care System (PVAHCS). The name change incorporates the main hospital, the Carl T. Hayden VA Medical Center, along with our VA Health Care Clinics in the community.

The Phoenix VA Health Care System has received several national and local awards for our service in the Phoenix community for our culturally diverse work force, our health care services, our quality of care and our public affairs programs. We constantly receive high marks from the Joint Commission.

The PVAHCS is also part of a network of seven health care facilities we call Veterans Integrated Service Network 18. This network consists of facilities in Albuquerque, New Mexico; Amarillo, Big Spring and El Paso, Texas; and Prescott and Tucson, Arizona.

VA embraces five Core Values ("I CARE") and six Core Characteristics as the "foundation" for our medical center. These VA Core Values; Because I CARE, I will...

Integrity: Act with high moral principle. Adhere to the highest professional standards. Maintain the trust and confidence of all with whom I engage.

Commitment: Work diligently to serve Veterans and other beneficiaries. Be driven by an earnest belief in VA's mission. Fulfill my individual responsibilities and organizational responsibilities.

Advocacy: Be truly Veteran-centric by identifying, fully considering, and appropriately advancing the interests of Veterans and other beneficiaries.

Respect: Treat all those I serve and with whom I work with dignity and respect. Show respect to earn it.

Excellence: Strive for the highest quality and continuous improvement. Be thoughtful and decisive in leadership, accountable for my actions, willing to admit mistakes, and rigorous in correcting them.

Our Core Values define "who we are," and our Characteristics define "what we stand for" and "what we strive to be" as an organization.

What We Offer

The Phoenix VA Health Care System (PVAHCS) offers high quality health care services to our nation's Veterans. We are classified as a referral 1b facility, and offer both inpatient and outpatient services. Our authorized beds include 129 inpatient medical-surgical beds, 104 Community Living Center beds, 48 mental health beds, and 20 beds in the community for substance abuse and alcohol treatment programs. The inpatient hospital first opened its doors on Sept. 9, 1951.

We are a teaching hospital that supports resident training in medicine, surgery, psychiatry, radiology and pharmacy as well as nursing students, social work students, dietary students and other allied health trainees. Since learning and patient care are intertwined, teaching hospitals often provide better medical care. We have more than 191 teaching agreements and affiliations with 151 academic institutions. Each year, more than 700 physicians, nurse and health care professionals receive training at the PVAHCS.

Our Ambulatory Care Clinic offers a spectrum of health care services for Veterans. This includes primary care, specialty care and related support services including an optical shop, radiology, an outpatient lab, audiology and speech pathology, and vision impaired and dental services for eligible Veterans. Since its opening in Sept. 1999, the ACC offers 750,000 square feet of health care space for these services.

Numerous Accreditations

The PVAHCS is accredited by numerous external organizations, the most significant being the Joint Commission. Other accrediting agencies include American College of Surgeons-Commission on Cancer, American Dental Association, College of American Pathologists, Federal Drug Administration, American Psychological Association, Arizona Affiliate of the American Heart Association, American Association of Blood Banks, the American College of Radiology and the Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities.

It is through the commitment to serve our Veterans, with the most technologically advanced methods that we have attracted the finest health care professionals. Partnerships with the University of Arizona College Of Medicine, Arizona State University and other teaching institutions enhance our ability to attract exceptional candidates.

As a VA network of medical centers in Veterans Integrated Service Network 18, we offer special needs services to patients via Albuquerque VA Medical Center's Magnetic Source Imaging Center for highly specialized neurosurgery and their Spinal Cord Injury Center for rehabilitation. We can also refer Veterans to the Tucson VA for Blind Rehabilitation.

Future Expansions

The Phoenix VA Health Care System is looking to add more outpatient clinics in the Phoenix area in the near future.

While providing high quality health care to the nation's Veterans, VA also conducts an array of research on some of the most difficult challenges facing medical science today. VA has become a world leader in such research areas as aging, diabetes, cancer, women's health, AIDS, stroke, post-traumatic stress disorder and other mental health issues. VA research has improved medical care for Veterans and the nation.

VA researchers played key roles in developing the cardiac pacemaker, the CT scan, radioimmunoassay and improvements in artificial limbs. A VA surgeon-researcher performed the first liver transplant in the world. VA clinical trials established the effectiveness of new treatments for tuberculosis, schizophrenia and high blood pressure. The "Seattle Foot," developed in the VA system, helps people with amputations be able to run and jump. VA contributions to medical knowledge have won VA scientists many awards, including the Nobel Prize and the Lasker Award.

Nearly 83 percent of VA researchers are practicing physicians. Because of their dual roles, VA research often immediately benefits patients. Functional electrical stimulation, a technology using controlled electrical currents to activate paralyzed muscles, is being developed at VA clinical facilities and laboratories throughout the country. Through this technology, paraplegic patients have been able to grasp objects, stand and even walk short distances.

Special VA "centers of excellence" throughout the nation conduct research in rehabilitation, health services and medical conditions, including AIDS, alcoholism, schizophrenia, stroke and Parkinson's disease. Multi-center clinical trials investigate the best therapy for various diseases. Current projects include testing aspirin therapy for heart patients, surgical treatment to reduce the risk of stroke and treatment options for prostate cancer.

At the Phoenix VA Health Care System, we are committed to our role in research, which can lead to medical breakthroughs for all Americans.

The VA Office of Research and Development (ORD) aspires to discover knowledge, develop VA researchers and health care leaders, and create innovations that advance health care for our Veterans and the nation.

ORD consists of four research services that together form a cohesive whole to explore all phases of Veterans' health care needs. Each Service oversees a number of world-renowned research centers nationwide:

- Biomedical Laboratory Research & Development Service
- Clinical Science Research & Development Service (Cooperative Studies Program)
- Health Services Research & Development Service
- Rehabilitation Research & Development Service

VA | Defining
HEALTH CARE | EXCELLENCE
in the 21st Century

The Phoenix VA Health Care System serves a unique and diverse Veteran population. Our days are bustling with activity as we care for Veterans that have a variety of medical issues. A World War II Veteran may come for care because his imbedded shrapnel wounds are surfacing. An Operation Enduring Freedom is having difficulty coping with the war trauma in her mind. Another Veteran may present because his colonoscopy is due. Although their needs may be different, the one thing all our Veterans have in common is what they have done for our country --- given a portion of their life so that we may enjoy our American freedoms. To some people this service may seem too noble a cause, but for the Department of Veterans Affairs Health Administration, we look at our Veterans as our heroes. Our VA Core Values express our pledge to them: Integrity, Commitment, Advocacy, Respect, Excellence (“I CARE”)
